If you've ever seen Gilboa, aka "Dr. G.," on TV, you know how passionate she is about mentoring kids with character. Gilboa, a board-certified attending family physician and alumnus of Chicago's Second City Improv Theater, inspires audiences with relatable stories and concrete strategies to raise respectful, motivated children who thrive. Learn how to use everyday opportunities to foster positive behaviors in teens without nagging or screaming. With humor and compassion, Dr. Gilboa will share practical tools to build life skills and help adolescents successfully launch to adulthood.

These free programs are open to the public. CPDUs are available for education professionals.
